Digital Illustration

I constructed this Samsung Galaxy S6 phone in Adobe Illustrator as my first design project. The goal of this project was to create a digital object using geometric shapes. This project also explored the use of shadows and gradients.

Interior Design

I used the pen tool to draw the outlines of this Japanese tea room. I then filled the shapes with a complimentary color scheme. This project heavily focused on gradients as well as the use of light and shadows.

Logo Design

This is a logo, sign, and business card I designed for a Thai restaurant. This project incorporated the pen tool, brush strokes and type. The dragon boat floating in the soup bowl is a play on the historic Titanic ship.

Webpage Design

I designed the logo and homepage for my food blog, "Roots and Marrow." I used the trace tool for all of the images except the logo. The goal of this project was to achieve a strong visual hierarchy of information for the audience to easily navigate the website. This food blog features foods from across the world, presenting the relationship between food and culture and encouraging people to get out of their comfort zones and experience new foods.

Big Sur, CA

Humboldt, CA
