

Chapter 4 Quiz Study Guide

PSYC 356

After reading the chapter, indicate whether these statements are true or false.

1. Ejaculation and orgasm always occur simultaneously. (True / False)
2. Erections in males are produced by the contraction of the muscles at the base of the penis. (True / False)
3. An especially sensitive part of the penis is the root. (True / False)
4. Sperm motility occurs in the seminiferous tubules. (True / False)
5. Men share many of the same hormones as women. (True / False)
6. Ejaculation occurs through the ejaculatory duct, which is also the urethra. (True / False)
7. The testes are the male gonad. (True / False)
8. The Cowpers secretion kills any lingering sperm in the urethra. (True / False)
9. One purpose of seminal fluid is to buffer the acidity of the vagina. (True / False)
10. The corpora cavernosa is involved in the physiological process of an erection. (True / False)
11. The rhythmic contractions that result in ejaculation start at the base of the penis. (True/False)
12. The production of sperm, known as spermatogenesis, occurs in the epididymus. (True / False)
13. The cells that form into the glans penis in males are the same cells that form into the vagina in females. (True / False)